ArcInTex Symposium Playfulness and its transition toward economic meaningfulness

Dear member of the ArcInTex network,

TIO3 invites you to the next network symposium on Thursday October 17 and Friday, October 18, 2013.

The theme of this symposium is 'Playfulness and its transition toward economic meaningfulness'.

During these two days we will focus on tools for bridging training and research to industry. We'll address questions like 'how can an idea be marketed', 'the creation of a spin-off as an interesting path, and other options', 'what could be a possible financial framework', 'how can the cooperation between business and design become a success story', 'what are the pitfalls', etc.

Below is an overview of the proposed programme, both for members and for the ArcInTex PHD students.

By mid-August you will receive the detailed programme with more details of the symposium. Please mark the dates, and keep in mind September 10 as deadline for registration.

We hope to welcome you this Autumn at our beautiful place.

PHD students

2 day's company workshops combining research and industry.

Companies: Centaxbel, Ghent and Elasta, Waregem

The idea is to organise hands-on workshops within 3 different companies & TIO3. We will limit the number of students per workshop (4 students/workshop) , so please make sure the enrol on time. We will work by the principle of first in, first served, with a total of 12 PHD students.

Within the companies students will be able to see how innovative textile products are being produced, which tests or certificates a product needs before it goes to market, etc.

The details of the participating companies will be send in the next update.

Please keep in mind the deadline for subscription: September 10, 2013. You can find the registration form at the end of this document.
